HORRORS OF AMAZON JUNGLE. Surgeon's Operations in the Primeval

.A shrilling story of adventure is told by Dr. Hamilton Rice, the American surgeon and traveller, who has, just arrived in London after a journey of twenty-one months' exploration in South-East Colombia and North-West Brazil, in the course of which he has traversed about a hundred thousand square miles of almost unknown territory.

In conversation with Reuter's representative Dr. Hamilton Rice said that the objects of his expedition were nto expiore and map the greatest unknown area in the world, and also to pursue medical and anthropological studies. In spite of enormous difficulties and hardships, his journey had been successful. He had collected valuable scientific data. and had cleared up the geography of the Amazon and Orinoco systems. In describing his journey, Dr. Hamilton Rice said: "Until August last. when we reached civilization at Mansos. a-thousand-miles-up-the-Amazon river, our record was one of bad weather and physical horrors which only South America can supply, of insects which made existence horrible, of periods of starvation and consequent mutiny, and the constant presence of disease.

POISONOUS SERPENTS.

" On the Papunaua River we came across people who had never seen a white. They suffered much from the bites of poisonous serpents, with which the river was infested, as a result of which a large number of Indians perished every year.

"Insects and disease were" the worst features of the expedition. Mosquitoes made life almost unbearable, and the swarms of large grass cutting ants, which appeared at sunset, ate our clothing, made our mosquito nets uscless, and even devoyred our ropes. Disease, too, was a very grave consideration, and during a certain portion of our journey our food supply gave cut, and we were reduced to eating thonkey flesh, and very little of that."

Dr. Hamilton Rice was himself attacked with poisonous ulcers and compelled to operate by candleight by injecting occaine and cutting his leg to the bone. The operation took two hours, and although this occurred nine months ago the wounds are still unhealed.

A DESPERATE CASE.

"One day carly in the journey the wife of the chief Indian guide appeared, having been practically cut in half by and are and I also had to operate on her for informal abscess. My terrified folfowers created a rough operating table in the virgin forcet, and I had to adminster the chloroform and use the

It was not surprising that the patient died, and there in the primaval jungle the practically dying Indians erected a cross ten feet high. The majority of the operations, of which there were over m hundred, were successful."

A Natural Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of veril spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or "intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.

ENO'S IFRUIT SALT

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

- It may be safely taken at any time by young
- It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrhaa by removing the irritating cause.
- Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

Only one scene was required to make the perfect film. It was the letter reading in the first net, and Sir Hubert von Herkomer's treasure of a house (called Lubilaund) provided an ideal background

. The house is built like a mediaval castle-an antique and monumental Gorman soldoss, which will stand as a lasting memorial to the generations of Her-komers who prepared the decorative stone, wood, and metal work for an edifice which is a combination of dwell-ling-house and temple of decorative art.

Racy Reminiscences.

Following upon "Jimmy Glover: His Book," we now have "Jimmy Glover and His Friends." a volume of reminiscences, issued to day by Meesrs. Chatto and Windus, says the "Westminster Gazotta" of October 9. The books are closely similar, inasmuch as they both contain a mass of racy recollections of Bohemian London, theatrical London, and gustronomic London. The changes that have come over Town have been shrowdly observed and amusingly des-

Where, for instance, are the old gallery boys, and the fights of the firstnighters? The methods of getting into the gallery (especially on a first night) used to be at one time vicarious and problematical. Take the old Gaiety Theatre, which used to be a happy Lunting-ground for the wild, carnest students of the drama. The entrance was on the hill of Catherine-street, now, of course, demolished to make a L.C.C. improvement, and method of procedure was as follows: Possessing the necessary shilling ready cash, one went early but not too early -to take up a strategic position on the top side of the hill, from which place one waited until ten minutes before opening-time. Then with loud cheers strenuous personal endeavour, one pushed down " the hill, with all the advantages of the slope. This led to reprisals from below where the early comers clustered round the door, and pushing 'up' became the order of the night. The result was never in doubt experienced gallery-ite, with probably only half an hour's wait to his credit, invariably at the critical moment swept all down the hill, gained the door, and torn, penting, perspiring, laughing, laid down his admission money and flung himself down the steep stairs of the gallery to gain the coveted front row.

No wonder the gallery was excited, ceptive, critical, and enthusiastic! No wonder, "stronge fits often used to strike these first-nighters, which must have been very uncomfortable for the actors "!

At Terry's on one celebrated occasion. a front piece was played, wherein the "decoration" included one garden seat right," one ditto left, one ditto centre, and a gate entrance back. Now, "everybody " came through that gate, and made for one of the seats instanter. It struck the gallery immediately, whispers began to fly about, prophesying which seat would next be cocupied, and on its being utilized a roor of laughter followed. The puzzled actors groped their way to more seats, only to be yelled at with delight or boord by the losers, and a mock bookie, in the gods, was taking the odds from a crowd of "playgoers" until the curtain fell, when all of them wiped their eyes and settled down to cheer Edward Terry in "Love in Idleness." I have often wondered what those actors 'thought." The piece was never keard of again. In fact, it was never heard

"ULLO, ERBERT "! Naturally enough, the author is much struck by the modern alliance of the theatre and the variety, hall. It would take a whole book, he says, to recount the humorous little contretemps which the new fusion gave birth to, so he contents himself with an amusing story of Sir Herbert Tree's first visit to the Palace Tie

.... there in the centre of the stage unnoticed, unobserved, stood Six Herbert Beerbohm Tree and Lady Tree in a mute dream of the wonderment of a now industry, which they had not before realized in its signal importance. Suddenly one of a semi-dressed, perspiring duct of scrobats in practising alippers and a semi-solled sweater just finished rehearsing, osutionally approaches His Majesty's knight," strikes him a good-humoured, well-intentioned, but inconveniencing blow on the back, and to see you on the 'sile." ant smile, and "Erbors " turns bound mechanically and says Im very well Mand The Two Whacks! The Two Whiseks Madd ! Jimmy! Glore, in the volume.

To persuado American managers and impresarios to hear the "Bee," he resortto a device which was clever, although hope it will not be adopted here. One morning fifty of the leading lights in the music publishing and artistic world arri ved at their offices to find that a piano had been installed in each of their offices. At a given hour they were all invaded by pianists who started immediately to perform the horrible number, with the result that the melody was all over the New York artistic world in twenty-four

There is a chapter which deals, somewhat discursively, with King Edward vII, as a playgoer. Mr. Glover is enthusiastic over the late King's patron: age of the theatre, but the best " story " has to do with a point of etiquetto: the dressing of the flunkeys at Drury Lane. no less, " in the Windsor uniform:"

We all had been going down to Wind sor Castle so much, that we became quite imbued with the Windsor fever, and it anppened that, on the opening night the present management of Drury Lane, as the theatre had always been licensed under Boyal Letters Patent, it was thought a loyal thought to dress the flunkeys in the Windsor uniform. The King was not, however, particularly anamoured when he first noticed the silken fiesh-coloured enlyes of the attendants with the regulation waistcoats, and he showed his temper in no unmistakable form, and sent one of the Equerties to protest-perhaps a little unneces-

That he had a wonderful memory was aminently evident in this case, for, on his next visit to the theatre, his first action on mounting the Royal staircase was to run the rule over the sttendants' divertes as he passed them on the stairs, and, on noticing that the alteration had been made, he immediately said, "That's better very much better." On this metier of regulation dress he was almost a martinet.

Mr. Glover announces that this will to his last "record of reminiscences His next venture is to be in the region if musical anthology.

LIFE-SAYING RAFTS. Indenious Device of a Singapore Gentleman.

In the report of the Board of Trade ommittee on life-boats, it will be recollected, a recommendation was made that scean-going steamers should carry rafts for life-saving as well as life-bonts. Phoir finding in regard to the boats and the method of launching them corresponded, as was pointed out in these columns at the time, with the details a new type of davits invented and patented by Mr. George d'Almeida, the Portuguese Consul at Singapore, and there was reason to believe that the committee had been influenced towards that finding by un inspection of Mr. d'Almeids's designs. In addition to his ingenious davits, howover, Mr. d'Almeida has applied himself | Carp,-Li Yu to the invention of a raft which seems to fill the necessary requirements of safety, accommodative capacity and mobility demanded in a practical object. His idea, which has been patented, is to have a waterfight box shaped to a point Cuttle Fish, Muk Yu at either end, with longitudinal side platforms, reinforced by preference but not necessarily-with bemboo in order to increase the buoyancy of the raft. Such a rat may be made to any dimensions but one with a length of 18 feet and a breadth of 8 feet is estimated to be capside of carrying 60 persons, or a load of five tone. Within the body of the raft are compariments for holding frees water. lamps and compasses and sails; while two masts are attached and transversely Gudgeon,--Pak Kup Yn disposed scats provideratting accommode. ## Sanatogen give you Health, Strength & Energy.

Almost everyone is familiar with the action of ordinary tonics-and with the reaction which generally follows.

But Sanatogen is different — its invigorating effects last, and there is no reaction. Sanatogen is simply a scientific health-food, with true tonic properties, and free from dangerous drugs or stimulants.

Give Sanatogen a Trial.

That is why so many experienced Europeans in the East are Sanatogen users, and why you should give it a trial.

You will bear the heat better, you will feel calmer and more cheerful, your appetite and digestion will improve, and you will sleep better and work with more energy. Moreover, you will be much less liable to catch Dysentery, Stomach and Bowel Complaints, and other diseases.

Buy a bottle of Sanatogen at the nearest Chemist's, and write, mentioning this paper, for a Free Copy of "The Art of Living."

Sir Gilbert Parker, the popular novelist, writes: "I have used Sanatogen with extraordinary benefit. It is a true food tonic, feeding the nerves, increasing the energy, and giving fresh, vigour to the overworked

Mr. Henry Arthur Jones, the famous dramatist, writes : "Sanattonic food. I have several times taken it when run down and always with

Sir H. Hesketh Bell, K.C.M.G., writes: "For a man doing hard mental work in an enervating climate, there is, according to my experience, no better invigorator than Sanatogen."

CHINESE DENTIS BUED.

FORRIGN LADY CLAIMS THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Alleged Negligent Treatment.

In the Summary Court this morning before the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice Kump, was continued the action brought by a foreign ludy against a Chinese dentist styling himself Dr. Laden, the sum of $1,000 being claimed for damages caused by the negligons and unskilful manner in which the defendant, who prectices at 31, Queen's Road treated plaintiff during the month of August. Defendant, under the name of Fok Li Chi otherwise Dr. Laden, counterclaimed the sum of $100 for work done and professional services rendered during the month of August.

For the plaintiff, Mrs. Karoline Antonia Alenberg, wife of Mr. E. Alenberg, Mr. D. Lewis, of the firm of Mosers. Johnson, Stokes and Master, solicitors, appeared; and Mr. F. X. D'Almada e Castro, solicitor, represented defendant

Mr. D'Almada continued his crossexamination of the plaintiff this morning. In answer to the solicitor's questions she said that the tooth upon which the defendant operated had proviously been filled. but the filling fell out and she then had intermittent pain. When defendant extracted the tooth there was a good deal of hemorrhage, and she suffered terrible pain. She lost confidence in the defendant and told her husband she would not go to him again. Defendant wanted her to continue her visits and have tooth put in. It was not correct to state that she or her husband told defendant they were going to Manila and could not let him continue his treatment for this reason. On the occasion of her last visit she was in such pain that she would let the defendant do nothing to the tooth, and on her return to her hotel she told her husband that she would have nothing more to do with defendant. " Even had my husband told me to go I would have refused," plaintiff added. A few days later defendant's assistant called at her hotel but she could not see him as she was in neglige. Re-examined by Mr. Lewis, plaintiff said the filling which came out of her tooth was put in in Russia four or five years ago, and at the time it was done the dentist told her that the norve was

The condition of the gum revealed severa periostitis and there was sloughing of the gum on both sides Plaintiff was hyper-sensitive to touch, this showing that she was suffering extreme pain. It was apparent that some burn ing acid had been used; what it was he could not say. The anterior root was left in, the posterior root having been taken out. He had no difficulty in diagnosing necrosis; in the first place, there was the peculiar odour of dying

Mr. Lewis: Would a dentist of average skility and experience have had any difficulty in disgnosing it? . Witness: No difficulty whatever.

Having diagnosed the trouble, witness continued, the first thing he did was to remove the cause. He sprayed the parts with sedative antiseptics, applied stimulants to the healthy tissues, and extracted the remaining root, which he carefully put aside for examination. Mrs. Alenberg called again next day and finding the gum still inflamed and discharging witness made a further examination which revealed so unnatural hole running down into the substance of the jaw-bons; t was about half an inch deep and about the size of a small bury (drill) produced. The hole could not have been older, at the very outside, than five or six weeks. At the bottom of it witness found a dressing (produced) . ### GROWTH OF HARBIN.

City With a Big Commercial Future.

After being absent from Harbin during the building season, writes a Harbin correspondent of the "North-China Daily News." one cannot fail to notice on one's return the big amount of capital being put into real estate and the number of fine buildings that are going up in Harbin Priston, the business quarter of the town. There cannot be any mistake in saying that Harbin will grow and progress rapidly every year and is bound to play a very important role in the commercial world in the next decade on account of its geographical position. Import trade has been very bad this year and on all sides one hears complaints from the foreign firms regarding the lack of business. On the other hand, the Chinese firms have been doing well and gradually are getting into their hands the bulk of the trade. Now that the summer is over and we are enjoying the invigorating Monchurian sutumn weather, the population of Harbin are waking up and everyone is talking of the prospects of a successful winter season with export trade. The Manchurian formers have had a'l' they could desire as far as weather is concerned so that given normal conditions Time will prove it one way or the other. #### FRAULEIN VON MOLLEN-DORFF'S CONCERT

There was a fairly large audience present at Fraulain Dora von Mollendorff' Concert in St. Andrew's Hall last night The young violinist had been preceded by oulogistic references to her remarkable talent, and it may be stated at once that she fully realised all the encomiums that had been made regarding her playing. Fraulein Mollendorff soon proved herself in regard to exquisite interpretation and of masterly technique. For so young an artiste, her conception of the composers meaning is wonderful, and she enters into the spirit of the composition in a minner which reveals very great insight together with a finished and graceful execution. Last night she began with one of Paganini's compositions -a Concerto in D dur-which she handled with supreme skill. Two lighter pieces followed-"La Precieuse" (Couperin Kreisler) and the "Secilienne et Rigaudon by Francoeur-Kreisler. Both were played delightfully. Several other pieces were also played by Fraulein Mollendorff and in them all she gave ample evidence of being a first rate player. Her concluding piece, the Elfin's Dance was most charmingly played. Mr. E. Danenberg admirably assisted Fraulein Mollendorff both as accompaniet and as soloist at the piano. His playing of one of Liszt's rhapsodies was exquisite and thoroughly deserved the loud applause that was

It is announced that Fraulein Mollendorff will give another concert on Saturday evening at the Pask Hotel.
